Integrated traditional and homeopathy First Aid Course

This new course is taking First Aid to a new level by integrating homeopathy into the traditional treatments of injuries and accidents.

It has been developed in collaboration between experts in traditional First Aid (MediTrain Waikato) and homeopathy (Frans van de Weerd). It is underpinned by our belief that traditional and non-traditional forms of medicine compliment one another, and thus can be safely and successfully applied in emergency and first aid situations.

The course is recognised by OSH as a Workplace First Aid course and accredited by the NZQA. Each situation is individually detailed, beginning with traditional first aid and followed by the appropriate homeopathic treatment, including how much, how often and when to discontinue remedies.

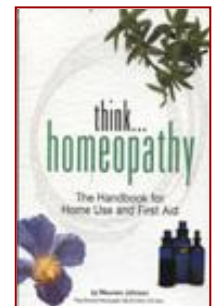

We have scheduled two separate courses, held at MediTrain Waikato, Hamilton East.
Please contact us if you are interested in a group booking.

Monday, 21st September
8:30 am to 4:30 pm
or
Wednesdays, 30th September and 7th October
6:00 pm to 9:30 pm

Each participant receives:

- ➔ a comprehensive First Aid Manual,
- ➔ "think... Homeopathy. The Handbook for Home Use and First Aid" by Maureen Johnson,
- ➔ a Workplace First Aid certificate.

The course fee is $195.
